MAY COMBINE
MANY PROJECTS

Commissioner of Indian Affairs Proposes General Consolidation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Consolidation of some of the twenty-two individual irrigation projects on the Utah Indian reservation and increased water storage are recommended by the commissioner of Indian affairs in his annual report published yesterday.

That the Utah irrigation is profitable he shows by the value of crops grown, but a better and more efficient system can be built up, in his judgment. Extension of the Fort Hall irrigation system in Idaho also is urged by the commissioner. Discussing these two projects, Commissioner Sells says:

UINTAH BASIN.

"The Uintah basin, Utah, is an exceedingly isolated locality, being some ninety miles from the nearest railroad, with an intervening mountain range some 11,000 feet high. Hauling supplies into the valley and shipping products therefrom is expensive, and the lack of transportation facilities seriously handicaps development of this valley. Last year the drought in the western states affected this reservation also, but in the face of the handicaps something over $2,000,000 worth of crops were grown on the irrigation projects at Uintah, the area under cultivation being over 50,000 acres. Instead of having one or more comprehensive irrigation systems at this point, we have some twenty-two separate projects, each with an independent heading in the various streams; the largest of these systems supplying 11,000 acres and the smallest but two Indian allotments aggregating 160 acres. The geology of the country is such that these systems cannot be combined into one, as they frequently draw water from entirely independent streams; but some of the systems are so located that consolidation can be effected to considerable advantage. Storage would be of great benefit if it could be had for reasonable expenditure, but desirable reservoir sites are lacking, and unless further surveys disclose suitable sites, the irrigable areas in this valley must depend entirely on the available flow in the streams. When the rainfall is deficient, naturally crops suffer."

VALUABLE CROPS.

"On the Fort Hall reservation, Idaho, the value of the crops raised last year exceeded $1,000,000. This is more than the total cost of the project to date, including operation and maintenance. Such figures as these place beyond question the wisdom of extending even comparatively large sums in irrigation work."

"The shortage of rainfall in the northwest during the past year seriously affected all irrigation projects, both Indian and white, and particularly those having entirely independent headings. The Blackfoot reservoir, which supplies the Fort Hall project, proved sufficient to meet needed demands, although the stored supply was drawn down to a very low stage. The distributing system on this reservation, as originally designed and built years ago, is not sufficiently large to meet the demands now made upon it, and frequently water is served through these canals beyond their safe carrying capacity. An enlargement of the entire system, while needed to supply the added demands, will prove almost as expensive as the construction of a new project. If present prices for farm products continue, however, even for a few years, the expense would be justified. The present carrying capacity of the distributing system at this point is about one-half as large as it should be to meet prospective demands upon it, and it is a matter of regret that the original designs for this system, made years before my incumbency, were not large enough to serve the areas that can and should be irrigated."

EVEN POPE BENEDICT OF ROME WROTE ABOUT ME IN A NICE NOTE to the Director of the Pharmacy Normale of Paris.

If you are weak, irritable, easily upset, don't sleep well, are under great stress, strain or worry, or if lack of iron in your blood is sapling your bodily and mental vigor, you need a new "blood count" made and see how your red blood corpuscles have increased and how much more energy and better health you have. I am NUXATED IRON—organic iron. I am like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples.

LAWYERS QUIT
IN SUGAR CASE

Attorneys Withdraw From West Cache Suit: Action Creates Surprise

SALT LAKE, Dec. 9.—Declaring that resolutions passed by the board of directors of the West Cache Sugar company directing its officers to dismiss the suit against Lorenzo N. Stohl and John A. Hendrickson, contains recitals which "misrepresent the litigation and constitute a reflection on the integrity of the courts of the state," the law firm of Cheney, Jensen and Holman have filed notice of withdrawal from the case with the supreme court.

No members of the firm would discuss the matter further yesterday than to say that their withdrawal speaks for itself and that, so far as they are concerned, the case is still before the supreme court.

This action yesterday added another chapter of surprise to a record of litigation almost without parallel in the history of the state's civil courts. Judgment in the Third district court was obtained against the defendants in the sum of $150,550, with interest at 8 per cent. The defendants appealed, and the matter is now before the supreme court of the state. Just what steps will be taken to dismiss the suit, attorneys for the plaintiff have withdrawn would not be disclosed last night.

In addition to withdrawing from the case, Cheney, Jensen and Holman served notice on the West Cache Sugar company that they would decline to serve the company in further litigation, except with the letter of justification returned to the company the papers in other cases.

SALT LAKE TO HAVE ROD AND GUN MEETING

SALT LAKE, Dec. 9.—The new Salt Lake county Fish and Game Protective association will hold its first regular meeting in the club room at the Newhouse hotel at 5 o'clock this evening, when officers will be elected for the ensuing year. All sportsmen and outdoor enthusiasts are invited to this outdoor club are urged to attend.

The fact that a new state fish and game commission is soon to be appointed might suggest to state sportsmen that it is neither for nor against any candidate for commissioner. Its purpose is to encourage and assist in the "angling of streams with clubs, help in sound public shooting grounds, aid in the enforcement of laws for the protection of game and co-operate with the authorities and the public at large for better and cleaner sport."

PROPOSE INSPECTION
TO COMBAT SCABIES

SALT LAKE, Dec. 9.—Menace of scabies to Utah sheep arising from the presence of the disease in Idaho and Colorado is given prominence in the biennial report of the state livestock board. Regarding this disease, the report says:

"It is respectfully recommended that in some way sufficient funds be provided for sheep inspection work for the coming biennium to provide for a general inspection of all sheep in the state at the time of shearing next spring, to be followed by a general dipping order in the fall."

"During the past biennium scabies has appeared in over half the counties in the state, principally in the western and northern border counties, and the extreme southeastern part of the state. Some of the scabies is the direct result of sheep entering from other states for grazing on our winter ranges. Other cases are the result of exposure to these transient sheep."

"Unless a vigorous campaign be instituted in cooperation with the bureau of animal industry, the efforts and money expended in the past will be for naught."

The report gives many statistics about the livestock industry in the state, and discusses the symptoms and preventive measures of many of the more common diseases among livestock.

"If the bureau of animal industry and the state of Utah can continue their campaign for the next two years," it is stated, with reference to tuberculosis in cattle, "Utah will be the first state in the union to be free from this dreaded disease."

Joint brand inspection with Colorado, Wyoming and Arizona is recommended for such a purpose requiring an appropriation from the legislature.
